NPA Adds 25 New Members During the 3rd Quarter

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The Natural Products Association (NPA), the oldest and largest association dedicated solely to the natural products industry, continued its strong membership growth during the third quarter of 2017, welcoming 25 new members to the organization.

“I’m not surprised that membership continues to grow as more companies realize the value of an NPA membership. No other trade association in the space has been as active as the NPA, from advocating for the inclusion of multivitamins in WIC to the delaying of implementation of the nutrition facts labeling rule to fighting to allow supplements to be included in HSA’s and FSA’s. Not to mention the publishing of our new book compiling the first ever list of Pre-DSHEA/Old Dietary Ingredients. Our diverse membership, across the entire supply chain, strengthens our impact on the industry and on Capitol Hill. The NPA has a very exciting future as we further establish ourselves as the trade association for the natural products industry,” said Dan Fabricant, Ph.D., CEO and President of NPA.

NPA’s industry leadership and expertise, along with accomplished activism efforts, continue to attract new members who strive to grow and improve their business.
